CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

A Doctoral Fellowship SNF at 100% in Contemporary History for 4 years

The Faculty of Arts and Humanities at the University of Neuchâtel is recruiting a doctoral student for the project "Sea-Border and Air-Space Formation in the Interwar Middle East: A Trans-Imperial Perspective" funded by the Swiss National Science Foundation, under the direction of Professor Jordi Tejel.

Start date: 1st February 2024 or upon agreement

Requirements: - Candidates must hold a Master's or equivalent degree in contemporary history, sociology or anthropology
- A strong interest in the topics of borders, transport, economy, and the interwar Middle East
- Capacity to work individually and collectively
- Very good command of Arabic, French and English
- Command of Digital Humanities tools is advantageous

Tasks: - Academic and administrative assistance
- Production of collective papers
- Complete conference papers
- Production of a thesis

What we offer: The chosen candidate will be recruited to work at 100% for a total of four years

Treatment: Salaries are according to the SNF’s salary scales

Assignment: Legal

Interested candidates should send an application containing a letter of motivation, a detailed curriculum vitae including two academic referees, copies of all university transcripts by November 20, 2023, at the latest, to nadine.eschmann@unine.ch

All call for applications at the University of Neuchâtel are open to both women and men.

Neuchâtel, October 7, 2023